

Changes are coming to Route 311

Starting Sept. 28, Route 311 will run only between Seattle and Woodinville. Commute alternatives will still be available between Woodinville and Duvall. These changes are part of a larger revision of transit service in the Snoqualmie Valley, with modifications to several routes and creation of a new intra-valley shuttle. Our goal is to enhance mobility for Snoqualmie Valley residents in a way that is more cost-effective than fixed-route bus service alone.

Planning your commute

Current riders of Route 311 between Woodinville and Duvall can reach their destinations using two alternative routes:

- Between Duvall and Redmond or downtown Seattle
Commuter Route 232 and a more frequent all-day Route 224 will connect Duvall and Redmond. From there, the Redmond Transit Center offers frequent, all-day service to and from downtown Seattle on Sound Transit Route 545.
- To the Woodinville Park-and-Ride
Routes 232 and 931 will still connect Avondale Road NE and the Woodinville Park-and-Ride. For riders coming from Duvall, Routes 232 and 931 will still connect at NE Woodinville-Duvall Road and Avondale Road NE. Route 311 will keep the same number of trips between the Woodinville Park-and-Ride and downtown Seattle.

In addition to fixed-route transit service, Metro offers assistance with vanpools, vanshares, and carpools. Look for the Metro vanpools at the Woodinville Park-and-Ride if you need a ride to Duvall during the first week of the new service routes. Then, check out our special incentives to join or create a ridesharing group - especially for those who become drivers for a vanpool or vanshare. ### More trips, new routes for other service to Duvall

Also starting on Sept. 28, Route 224 will be shortened to run only between Duvall and Redmond. It will make more trips and serve more riders in Redmond Ridge. The part of Route 224 that connects Duvall and Fall City will be replaced with new, all-day service on the Snoqualmie Intra-Valley Shuttle. This shuttle will also provide flexible routing in Duvall, where riders will be able to call to schedule pick-up times.
